Furaha Africa Relief Association

Furaha Africa Relief Association (FARA) is committed to safeguarding the personal information entrusted to us by our donors, clients and volunteers. FARA manages personal information in accordance with Alberta's Personal Information Protection Act and other applicable laws. This policy outlines the principles and practices we follow in protecting your personal information.

This policy applies to FARA and to any person providing services on our behalf. A copy of this policy is provided to any individual on request.

What is personal information?

Personal information means information about an identifiable individual. This includes but is not limited to an individual's name, home address and phone number, age, sex, marital or family status, an identifying number, financial information, educational history, etc.

What personal information do we collect?

We collect only the personal information that we need for the purposes of providing services to our donors, clients, and volunteers, including but not limited to personal information needed to:

- receive and receipt donations
- communicate with sponsors
- process the delivery of aid to participants in the Program

We normally collect donors, clients and volunteers personal information directly from the individuals. We may collect your information from other persons with your consent or as authorized by law.

We inform our donors, clients and volunteers before or at the time of collecting personal information, of the purposes for which we are collecting the information. The only time we don't provide this notification is when a client volunteers information for an obvious purpose like producing a credit card to make a donation when the information will be used only to process the payment. Financial information such as credit cards details are only used for the purposes of supporting FARA Programs, at the direction of the client. We store all financial information in a secure database.

Consent

We ask for consent to collect, use or disclose client personal information, except in specific circumstances where collection, use or disclosure without consent is authorized or required by law. We may assume your consent in cases where you volunteer information for an obvious purpose.

We assume your consent to continue to use and, where applicable, disclose personal information that we have already collected, for the purpose for which the information was collected.

We ask for your express consent for some purposes and may not be able to provide certain services if you are unwilling to provide consent to the collection, use or disclosure of certain personal information. Where express consent is needed, we will normally ask donors, clients and volunteers to provide their consent orally in person or by phone or by email.

A client may withdraw consent to the use and disclosure of personal information at any time, unless the personal information is necessary for us to fulfil our legal obligations. We will respect your decision, but we may not be able to provide you with certain products and services if we do not have the necessary personal information.

We might collect, use or disclose client personal information without consent only as authorized by law. For example, we may not request consent when the collection, use or disclosure is to determine suitability for an honour or award, or in an emergency that threatens life, health or safety.

How do we use and disclose personal information?

We use and disclose client personal information only for the purpose for which the information was collected, except as authorized by law. For example, we may use client contact information to issue receipts.

If we wish to use or disclose your personal information for any new business purpose, we will notify you and ask for your consent. We might not seek consent if the law allows this (e.g. the law allows organizations to use personal information without consent for the purpose of collecting a debt).

What is personal volunteer information?

Personal volunteer information is personal information about a volunteer which is collected, used or disclosed solely for the purposes of establishing, managing or terminating a volunteer work relationship. Personal information may, in some circumstances, include a Social Insurance Number, a performance review, etc.

We can collect, use and disclose your personal information without your consent only for the purposes of establishing, managing or ending the volunteer relationship. We will provide current volunteers with prior notice about what information we collect, use or disclose and our purpose for doing so.

Access to records containing personal information

Individuals have a right to access their own personal information in a record that is in the custody or under the control of FARA , subject to some exceptions. For example, organizations are required under the Personal Information Protection Act to refuse to provide access to information that would reveal personal information about another individual. In the instance that we refuse a request in whole or in part, we will provide the reasons for the refusal. In some cases where exceptions to access apply, we may withhold that information and provide you with the remainder of the record.

You may make a request for access to your personal information by writing to The Board of Directors of FARA. You must provide sufficient information in your request to allow us to identify the information you are seeking.

You may also request information about our use of your personal information and any disclosure of that information to persons outside our organization. In addition, you may request a correction of an error or omission in your personal information.

We will respond to your request within 45 calendar days, unless an extension is granted. We may charge a reasonable fee to provide information, but not to make a correction. We do not charge fees when the request is for personal employee information. We will advise you of any fees that may apply before beginning to process your request.
